GAINS IN HOUSE PILING UP

Threaten to Wipe Out the Republican Majority

HARDING'S FRIENDS BEATEN

Important Administration Figures
Go Down in Defeat

NEW YORK — Swept by a rising tide of democratic victories in many states, the tremendous Republican majority piled up in the Harding landslide of two years ago were knocked right and left in yesterday's elections.

The Republican majorities in the United States senate and in the house of representatives were sharply reduced, but Republican managers declared they would not be wiped out.

Until belated returns from the west and middle west began trickling in today, the Democrats actually were leading in the poll of votes for the house. The 11th Michigan district for the Republicans tied the two parties at 178 each in the race toward the necessary 218 majority and it became plain that the deciding votes were yet to come from the west and middle west.

Some important figures in the Republican administration went down to defeat and some members of the senate and house personally close to President Harding will return to private life with the rising Democratic tide.

GAIN ONE IN SOUTH
The Republican forces failed to break into the Democratic ranks in the south and lost one congressional district which they have held there for years—the ninth Virginia speaker Gillett was re-elected. Miss Alice Robertson, Republican, of Oklahoma, the only woman in congress, was beaten by a man whom she defied two years ago, and a progressive house got an additional member, a Republican, in Miss Winifred Huck.

With the defeat of Governor Miller of New York by Alfred E. Smith, the Republicans also lost thirteen seats of the Empire state in the house of representatives and a senator William M. Calder, who was beaten by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Democrat.

HARDING'S FRIENDS BEATEN
With Democratic victories in other states some national figures close to the Republican administration and President Harding personally went down in defeat. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts apparently was elected but ran far behind the ticket in his state. Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, who ran on a dry platform in New Jersey, was beaten by Governor Edwards, Democrat, who ran on an openly acknowledged wet platform.

Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, came back, as did Senator McClean of Connecticut. In Delaware Senator Dupont was having a close race for both the long and the short terms. In Indiana former Governor Ralston, Democrat, was running ahead of former Senator Albert Beveridge.

In Iowa, Colonel Smith W. Brookhart rode thru to victory on the Republican ticket although he was openly opposed by some of the Republican leaders. On the other hand, Senator France, Republican of Maryland, charged with radical tendencies, was beaten by the Democratic candidate, Benjamin C. Brice, prominent Baltimore lawyer.

In Michigan, Senator Townsend, the Republican incumbent, was running behind while in Minnesota, where first returns favored Senator Frank B. Kellogg, Republican late returns showed him trailing second to Henrik Shipstead.
who ran on the Farmer-Labor ticket.

REED VICTORY ASSURED
Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, early today seemed assured of re-election. In Montana, Burton K.
Wheeler, the Democratic candidate, was running ahead of his Republican opponent, Carl Riddick.

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, floor leader of the Wilson administration forces in the peace party fight, was beaten by R. B.
Howell, Republican national committee man from the state. In North Dakota where the Non-Partisan League was a great factor, J. F. T.
Cannon, Democrat, was leading former Governor Johnson.

Pennsylvania going Republican as usual, sent Gifford Pinchot to the governor's chair with a Republican administration and re-elected Senators Pepper and Reed, the latter for both a short and a long term. Senator Clegg, Democrat, Rhode Island, beat the former Republican governor, R. Livingston Republican governor, in Texas Earle B. Mayfield, Democrat, won the election to the senate. Senator Poinsett of Washington, Republican, had a fight on his hands.
In West Virginia, the Democratic candidate, M. M. Neely, Republican Senator Sutherland, the other Republican incumbent, returned Senator LaFollette to the senate with a large plurality.

In Wyoming, where Representative Mondell, Republican leader in the house of representatives was running for the senate, the late returns indicate a close race with Senator Kendrick, Democrat.

The returns showed the Democrats making all the gains and the Republicans suffering all the losses in the house of representatives and the Republicans taking severe defeats in some places where they had not been expected.

Victor L. Berger, the Socialist, was returned to the house from the fifth district of Wisconsin and thus offsets the Socialist loss occasioned by the defeat of Representative Meyer London in New York.

ARMED MEN STEAL BALLOT BOX

Chicago Polling Place Raided by 18 Vote Thieves

CHICAGO — (Associated Press)
—Eighteen men armed with pistols, and said by election judges and workers to have been led by State Representative Lawrence O'Brien, Democratic candidate for re-election, held up a polling place in O'Brien's district and carried away the ballot box and tally sheets late last night.

Later Samuel Maritzo drove to the city hall with the ballots. He said the poll raiders stopped him, threw the ballots into his automobile and ordered him to speed up.
Maritzo was held for further questioning and Chief of Police Fitzmorris ordered the arrest of O'Brien, who was sought today.

Two policemen who were on guard at the polls, would be suspended, the chief declared. The judges and clerks were taken into custody also.

O'Brien's district was hotly contested between two Democrats and two Republicans for the three seats in the legislature. At the time of the holdup, the election officials said Bernard Conton, the other Democrat, had 359 votes and O'Brien 25.

Early last night four bandits held up Republican headquarters in the thirteenth ward, robbed election workers and escaped with about $2,000.

DEMOCRATS ELECT 3 IN COUNTY

Auditor, Clerk and Surveyor
Saved From Crash

COTNER GETS PEAK VOTE

Crosson is High Man on the Republican Ticket

Only three county officials were elected by the Democrats in the Tuesday ballot battle, according to the unofficial figures, completed by members of the board of elections and its corps of assistants Wednesday afternoon.

Phillips is returned for auditor,
Smith is elected surveyor and Cotner is chosen clerk a second time.

The Republicans elect Crosson for sheriff, Gray for commissioner, Botkins for treasurer, Wyre for recorder, Lippincott for prosecutor and Adams for coronor, Baxter for representative.

Donahay for governor has been given a good plurality in the city and county, but Pomerene is trailing Fess for United States senator.

The closest race of the election day contest was staged by Dr.
Adams and Dr. Smith, for coronor.
Adams wins by 20 votes. Another nip and tuck race was that between Botkins and Basinger for treasurer.

Botkins is re-elected by 24 votes,
on the face of the result of the unofficial count.

COTNER LEADS TICKET
Cotner was given the largest majority of any county candidate. Cotner, a Democrat, won re-election over Mrs. Loretta Durbin, Republican, by 5,217. Phillips, Democrat, for re-election, defeated Hartline by 2,293, while Smith, Democrat, for surveyor, won over Tox, Republican, by 3,710.

Crosson's plurality over McCrato,
his Democratic opponent for sheriff, is 1,659. Andy Gray, Republican, has defeated Hoffman, Democrat, by 1,364. The race between Miller, Democrat and Baxter, Republican,
for representative, is also very close.
Baxter leading by 55 votes.

Chief Deputy J. M. Madigan of the board of elections, stated Wednesday that the official count will likely not be completed until some time Friday.

Voters of Lima defeated daylight saving time by an overwhelming majority, incomplete unofficial figures
Wednesday afternoon indicated.

While the totals were not available at the board of elections, it is certain that the fad which caused so much confusion in this city was among the most unpopular proposals submitted to the electors Tuesday.

The beer and wine amendment is given a severe jolt in Allen co. Proposed bond issue for fair grounds is defeated. Two mill levy for the city is lost. A heavy vote was polled in the city in favor of bond issue for new schools. The proposition has won.

NEW YORK SWEEP BY DEMOCRATS

Smith is Elected Governor by Record Vote

NEW YORK — (Associated Press)
—Riding on the crest of a tidal wave of votes that swept into office the entire Democratic state ticket and its candidate for United States senator, gave the party a majority of the state senate and reduced the Republican control of the state legislature to a slight majority.

Alfred Smith was elected governor of New York, by a plurality of approximately 478,670, the largest it has ever given any candidate for any office.

With all but 295 of the state's 7,301 election districts accounted for:
Smith: 1,375,646; Miller 970, 388.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Democrat, health commissioner of the city of New York and former Republican mayor of Ann Arbor, Mich., defeated
United States Senator William M.
Calder, Republican running for re-election, by a plurality of approximately 25,000. The vote with 94 of the 7,301 districts missing, was Copeland 1,125,393; Calder 878,948.

MOST PERFECT PROFILE

European artists have decided that Baroness Leja de Torinoff has the most perfect profile in the world. The baroness is to visit the dowager ex-empress of Russia and will then return to the United States.

8 SENATORS CUT FROM REPUBLICAN MAJORITY

Later Returns May Add to Democratic Gains

WIN TWO IN MIDDLE WEST

Overturns Made in Jersey, New York and Maryland

NEW YORK. (Associated Press).
—Returns today supplementing those of last night showed that Republican seats in the senate from Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Michigan and West Virginia, apparently had been captured by the Democrats and that the Republicans had captured senate seats held by Democrats from Nebraska and Ohio.
In Delaware, Montana and Minnesota the results still were too close to be counted in either column.
These returns so far would reduce the Republican majority in the senate from 24 to 16, with prospects of a further reduction.

MID WEST CHANGES
CHICAGO. (Associated Press).
—Six middle western states changed their political complexion as returned to United States senators in yesterday's election on the face of returns available early today with the net indicated loss to the Republicans of two senators.

In three of the states, Indiana,
Michigan and North Dakota returns showed Democratic candidates leading for senate places. In two states, Ohio and Nebraska, the figures indicated the overturning of Democratic incumbents.

Two other middle western commonwealths returned their present senators, James R. Reed, Democrat, winning over R. R. Brewster, Republican in Missouri, while Robert M. LaFollette, running as a Republican, defeated Mrs. Jack Hooper, leader of the Wisconsin Democratic ticket.

ILLINOIS WET
Two other western states, Iowa and Texas, elected new United States senators of the same political faith as the incumbents. In Iowa, Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, will take the seat of Senator Charles W. Rawson, also Republican, by defeating Clyde L. Herring, Democrat. In Texas, Earle B. Mayfield, Democrat, will take the place of former Senator Culberson whom he defeated in the primary. Mayfield won from

G. E. B. Biddy, foe of the Ku Klux Klan.

The return of beer and light wine was favored by a heavy majority in Illinois, the vote being more than 3 to 1 wet. Illinois also returned a heavy majority in favor of a $55, 000,000 bonus to Illinois soldiers in the world war. Congressman Andrew Volstead, father of the prohibition act, apparently was defeated for congress in Minnesota by the Rev. J. H. Kvale, who however declared that he is "drier" than Volstead.

OHIO G. O. P. LOSES 4 CONGRESSMEN

Six Districts Remaining Doubtful Claimed by Democrats

DRYS ARE IN MAJORITY

Overturn in Ninth Regarded as Most Notable Victory

COLUMBUS. (Associated Press).
—Ohio's present solidly Republican congressional delegation will contain at least four Democrats at the opening of the sixty-eighth congress, according to tabulation of returns from yesterday's election. Sixteen of the races for the twenty-two Ohio congressional seats were apparently definitely decided early today and of the winners of these, four were Democrats and twelve Republicans.

The twelve Republican winners assure Republicans of a majority of the delegation but in at least some of the six doubtful districts Democrats predicted assuredly that their candidates would be elected.

Notable among Democratic congressional victories was that of Isaac R. Sherwood, veteran member of the house, who defeated W. W.
Chalmers, the Republican incumbent and victor over Sherwood at the last election in the ninth district.

DRYS IN MAJORITY
As classified by the Anti-Saloon League during the campaign, eleven of the sixteen congressmen whose election seemed assured, and dry and five wet. Only two of the races were participating in the doubtful races were opposed by the Anti-Saloon League and it appeared that the largest number of the favorable to modification of the Volstead act who could become members of the Ohio delegation would be seven, compared with 15 averse to such modification.

Contents in practically all of the six doubtful districts appeared early today to be so close that practically complete returns would be necessary to determine the winners.

INJUNCTION MAY TIE UP OHIO FUEL BOARD

HALT CALLED IN TOLEDO SUIT

Restraining Order by Court is Demanded

WOULD NIP PRICE FIXING

Action Taken by Two Large Mining Companies

TOLEDO. — (Associated Press) — A sweeping injunction, which, if granted will tie up all of the machinery of the state fuel administration and stop, temporarily at least, all efforts to enforce coal price regulation in Ohio, is asked in a suit filed today in United States district court here.

The Ohio Collieries Company and the George M. Jones Company, two Toledo companies which control 16 mines in the southern Ohio field, seek the injunction.

BILL OF COMPLAINT

The bill of complaint attacks the constitutionality of the emergency act passed by the legislature late in the summer providing for the appointment of a fuel administrator and state regulation of the price of coal.

The bill names Roy B. Stuart, prosecuting attorney of Lucas co., Governor Davis, Attorney General John G. Price and Fuel Administrator Neal as defendants and asks that they be restrained from taking any action of any kind toward carrying out the terms and provisions of the emergency fuel act.

EDWARDS WINS ON WET PLEA

Crushes Harding's Friend in New Jersey Senate Race

BATTLES VOLSTEAD LAW

Anti-Prohibitionists Score Gains in Many States

NEWARK, N. J. — (Associated Press) — Governor Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, overwhelmed U. S. Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, friend of President Harding and administration spokesman, in the race for the seat in the senate at Washington in the New Jersey elections yesterday.

Running far ahead of Judge Silzer, the Democratic candidate for governor who also was elected, Edwards held a two to one lead over his colleague and won the election by nearly 90,000 votes.

With only 178 districts missing, Edwards had 416,315 votes, his opponent, 329,728. The state senate and assembly, however, will remain Republican.

BASIS OF VICTORY
Governor Edwards announced he attributed his victory to discontent in New Jersey caused by the Republican tariff and by the prohibition laws.

"The Volstead act," he continued, "has much to do with our victory. We asked a modification of this law so as to legalize light wines and beers. To be sure we were against the return to the saloon but we made a fight on the ground that the rights of the people had been infringed upon and their personal rights had been taken away."

Governor Edwards became chief executive of the state on the same sort of platform, except that it was more radical. Then he stood on a plank which advocated, as he expressed it, making New Jersey as "wet as the Atlantic ocean."

WETS SCORE GAINS
NEW YORK. — (United Press) — "Wets" scored big gains in Tuesday's voting.

Illinois, in a referendum on the restoration of beer and light wines, voted wet by a majority estimated to exceed 500,000. Chicago went to the polls in favor of the wet, while down state the dry votes were not numerous enough to offset the preponderance of wet sentiment in the cities. Several "wet" congressmen were elected.

Massachusetts, voting on enforcement of the Volstead law, recorded a drastic dry regime.

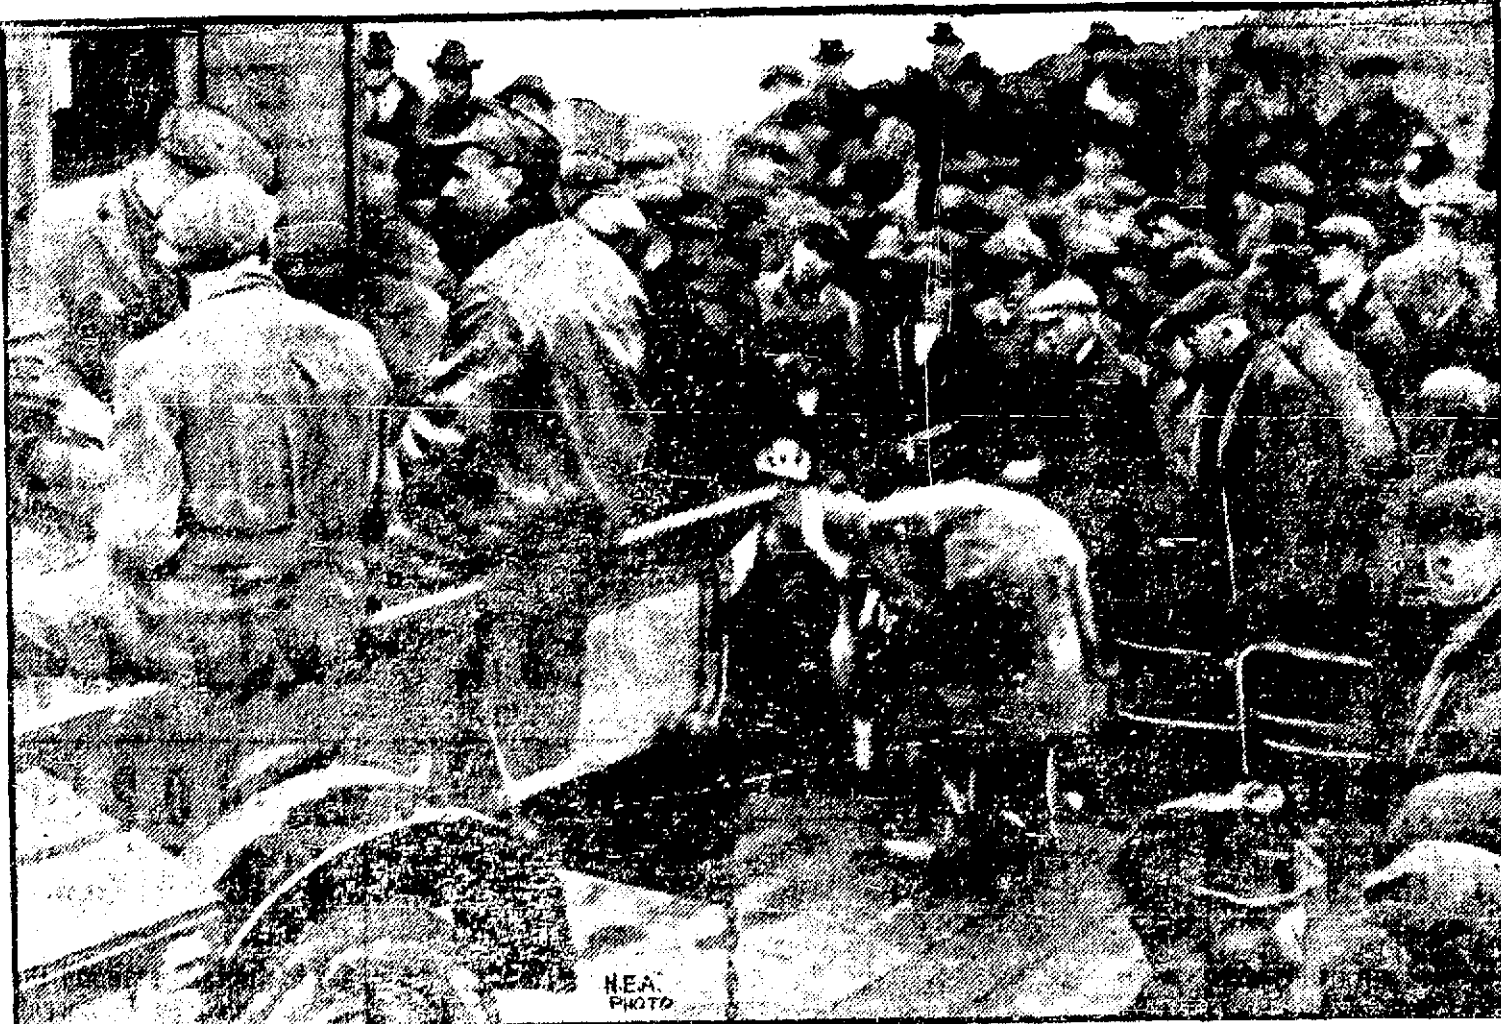

In Ohio the result of the referendum on the proposed constitutional amendment restoring beer and wine was in doubt.

New York state elected many wets to congress, while the result of the senatorial and congressional contests in New Jersey was a distinct wet victory.

In California the result of a vote on drastic enforcement was in doubt, the southern part of the state voting dry and the northern part wet.

While Representative Andrew Volstead, Minnesota, author of the dry law, was defeated for congress, his successful opponent, Rev. O. J. Krueger, is even drier than Volstead.

CURTAINED WORK FACES CITY

Operations Will be Cut Following Levy Rejection, Report

SEEK FINANCE SOURCES

Confusion Helped Kill Measure, Bingham Says

Curtailing operation of the city government is the only thing which can follow the rejection of the two mill levy by the voters, C. A. Bingham, city manager, said Wednesday.

At the same time he asserted that many persons voted against the measure believing that they were voting for it. Reports from various precinct voting booths indicated this, he said.

In several instances a number of persons addressed the voters as they approached the polls and, believing they were for the measure, told the voters to vote "No" in order that the city might be given funds, Bingham said.

Just how drastic will be the cut in operation will not be known until a thorough search of the state laws has been made to determine what bonds may be issued.

One opinion which has been received by the city shows that a city can always borrow when wages or salaries are due and payable. It is possible that some money may be obtained by this means.

Definite announcement regarding future plans will be made after the city solicitor has had an opportunity to study the situation, officials announced.

SOLAR ANNOUNCE BIG DIVIDEND

Brings Stock Increase of Two Million Dollars

Declaration of a 100 percent stock dividend by the Solar Refining Co., was announced in New York City Wednesday, a dispatch to a local brokerage house announced.

This will increase the capital stock of the company from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000. It is understood, and will be effective in December should the stockholders of the company approve the action of the board of directors.

Officials of the Solar Refining Co., in Lima, verified the dispatch. They expressed surprise that it had become public as the announcement did not originate with the board of directors.

PSYCHOLOGIST ADDRESSES LIONS CLUB AT LUNCHEON

Dr. J. G. Clutterbuck, of Cleveland, vocational analyst and psychologist spoke to the Lions at their Wednesday luncheon on the necessity of fitting one's self and employees to the position of life work best adapted to the individual case.

Following the meeting the speaker held a conference with a number of the members desiring his advice.

The Red Cross roll call was voted a 25 membership and the individual support of each Lion, in their coming drive.

TRIAL TODAY

Whether or not William Deutsch, Cleveland, whose car is held by Allen co authorities in connection with transporting whiskey, can refit cover the machine, will be determined in a hearing before Justice E. M. Botkin at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

Justice Botkin has ordered the car sold. Unless Deutsch can show to the court's satisfaction that he had no connection with the alleged operations of Ben Brown, now in the county jail, the order will be carried out.

WILSON SMILE IS IN EVIDENCE

Ex-President Taking Joyful Interest in Election Returns

WASHINGTON. — (United Press) — The Woodrow Wilson smile of victory—the 1912 and 1916 variety—was in evidence at the "House on S-st" today.

The former president, according to his physician, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, was taking a keen and joyful interest in the election returns, which continued to show sweeping Democratic gains.

About every half hour he directed his secretary to call Democratic headquarters here and obtain the latest returns. He kept a watchful eye on the returns from Massachusetts, where his arch-enemy, Henry Cabot Lodge, was having the battle of his long career in his efforts to retain his senate seat.

It is no secret that nothing would please the ex-president more than the downfall of the Republican senate leader, who defeated him in his efforts to obtain American participation in the league of nations.

The former president was said to be in a happier mood than at any time during his long illness and the close friends are confident the Democratic successes will be of great benefit in his efforts to regain his health.

Despite his keen satisfaction with the election, it was said that Wilson probably would not break his long-continued silence to comment on the result, he still believes the house will be Democratic.

Wilson is said not to be vindictive in his joy at the election. He believes the Democratic victories are in some measure a vindication of the ideals for which he fought.

It was only at the insistence of Admiral Grayson that Wilson retired at his usual bed time last night as the reports piled up the Democratic majorities. He was up early this morning and eagerly read all the morning newspapers.

NURSERY PROVIDED AT TABERNACLE

"Bring Kiddies Along" Officials Advise Worried Mothers

ATTENDANTS TO BE PROVIDED

Donations Are Sought for Youngsters Play Room

Mothers who expect to attend the Evangelistic rallies to be held at the tabernacle on S. Pierce-st. next week need not worry concerning the care of their children while they are there.

Bring the kiddies along, is the word.

Announcement was made Wednesday by officials of the rally, that a nursery had been completed in the building for the use of children whose mothers attend the meeting. Attendants will be provided to care for the youngsters.

Officials are now seeking donations of furniture, toys and other things which will help make the children comfortable while there. People who care to assist are asked to phone Main 7143.

MEETING POSTPONED

U. S. PROSPERITY INCREASING

Revealed Thru Tourist Crop, Californians Say

20 PER CENT GROWTH SHOWN

Figured Out by Chambers of Commerce

(BY ROBERT A. DONALDSON)
SAN FRANCISCO. — (United Press).—The rest of the country may resort to such antiquated methods of gauging national prosperity as the United States Agricultural Department's indexes and reports or the trend of the stock exchange, but California has a method of its own which it believes is even more efficient.

It gauges national prosperity by the annual tourist crop.

"Prosperity has increased twenty per cent during the past twelve months," chambers of commerce and business bureaus throughout California are declaring in the fall of 1922.

They base their claims on the fact that railroad travel is twenty per cent higher now than at the same time last year.

Furthermore, railroad reports on reservations and inquiries indicate that the same condition will prevail throughout the winter.

The Southern Pacific and Santa Fe systems are preparing for the largest crop of tourists ever, with the exception of the year 1920. And even that may be exceeded.

It will be necessary to run many extra trains to California this fall and winter, railroad officials state. Already the present scheduled trains are crowded to capacity, and "second sections" are being run.

San Francisco hotel proprietors report the largest number of advance bookings since 1920, and, in fact, for many years past with that exception.

Los Angeles is wondering what in the world it is going to do with its tourist crop. Already its streets are too crowded for comfort. The principal subject of conversation in the southern city is the question of automobile, street car and pedestrian congestion in the downtown district.

San Francisco, with its wider thoroughfares and its big hotel district, is ready to cope with the problem. But apartment house keepers and owners of flats are reporting an unprecedented full demand.

Smaller cities, figures indicate, are beginning to receive the overflow. Heavy tourist trade is being prepared for by Long Beach and Pasadena, always big caterers to the tourist trade; Santa Ana, Riverside, Redlands, San Bernardino, San Diego, Santa Barbara and many other towns in Southern California, and by San Mateo, Burlingame, San Jose, Berkeley, San Rafael and similar towns, in the region of San Francisco.

"Twenty per cent sure," is the statement of practically all bodies which keep track of the tourist trade.

"And that means that the country has picked up at least twenty per cent in prosperity," experts say.

FATHER AND SON BOTH RESTORED BY TANLAC

"Tanlac certainly gives a lot for the money," said W. E. Koss, well-known grocer of 313 N. College St., Carlisle, Pa.

"Following a bad case of flu I found myself in such a weak, nervous, run-down condition I could hardly attend to business. I was in this shape a year and could make headway towards getting back my strength. My stomach was all out of order. I had no appetite, and weighed only a hundred and twenty pounds.

"A few bottles of Tanlac gave me complete health with a gain of thirteen pounds. I also have a twelve-year-old son in school who had a nervous trouble and was in very bad shape. Soon after starting him on Tanlac his troubles disappeared and he also gained ten or twelve pounds. Tanlac certainly gives the desired results."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

JOHNSON, SMITH MAY BE RIVALS

Mentioned as Probable Presidential Candidates

RESULT OF BIG VICTORIES

Each Wins Election in Spectacular Manner

SAN FRANCISCO. (United Press) — Hiram W. Johnson, California Republican senator, today shared honors with Al Smith, New York's Democratic governor, as the most sensational vote gatherers of Tuesday's election.

Johnson's victory over William J. Pearson, in California, by a figure which threatens to become 3 to 1, caused the Californian to stand out as a veritable Republican island in a Democratic sea.

Eastern states and neighboring western states all showed a Democratic trend, but Johnson could not be stopped any more than could the Republicans stop Smith in New York.

POLITICIANS SPECULATE

More than one politician here today spoke of the possibility of these two men meeting in the game of vote getting two years from now as presidential candidates. Johnson, whose eye has been on the presidency since his ascendancy to a position of national prominence some 15 years ago, was considered a likely aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination. It has been said frequently that Smith, if he won in New York, would be a bidder for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnson's campaign was somewhat unique in that most observers conceded him victory from the day of the primaries. Yet, Johnson as is said to be his characteristic, refused to be content and during the two weeks preceding election, campaigned the state in an automobile from north to south, making speeches as he went.

The reason apparently will be the largest majority he has piled up in his political career—a career which has never been marked by a defeat at the polls.

About every half hour he directed his secretary to call Democratic headquarters here and obtain the latest returns. He kept a watchful eye on the returns from Massachusetts, where his arch-enemy, Henry Cabot Lodge, was having the battle of his long career in his efforts to retain his senate seat.

It is no secret that nothing would please the ex-president more than the downfall of the Republican senate leader, who defeated him in his efforts to obtain American participation in the league of nations.

The former president was said to be in a happier mood than at any time during his long illness and the

FROM NEWSIE TO GOVERNOR

U. S. Political Tradition Upheld in New York Election

"AL" RISES FROM MASSES

Smile Helps to Put Smith Over for Governor

(By EDWARD THURRY)
NEW YORK — (Special)—"Al" Smith's election as Governor of New York—beating the man who beat him at the end of his first term two years ago—was a personal triumph as well as a party victory.

America's favorite political tradition that statesmen must rise from humble walks of life, thus true to form in Smith's case. He was once a newsboy and the publisher of a newspaper in New York City did not do him any harm in the campaign.

Smith is "Al" to everyone. Not one voter in ten knew or cared that his full name is Alfred Emanuel Smith. He is a Scotch-Irish and readiest and cheerful smile of any man in public life. He has been wearing that smile for a quarter of a century, and it helped him to be elected assemblyman, state president of the Board of Aldermen, and finally governor in 1918.

ONE OF THE MASSES
How popular Smith is personally may be judged by the fact that he ran for chief of the Democratic ticket for the governorship in 1920. He was only narrowly beaten in the Republican landslide by 74,000 votes, while he lost the state by more than 1,000,000 votes.

Timothy Hall discovered Smith on New York's congested East Side. He was born there 49 years ago and it has been a pretty big political asset for him that he still lives in the house where he was born. He is proud of being one of the masses.

His-Governor Martin H. Glavin, presiding at a farewell banquet at the end of Smith's first term as governor, called Smith "a graduate from the University of Nature."

There's the way Smith looks at his job. "Let me tell you there is nothing in the business of being governor unless you are prepared to forget yourself and the fact that you live in a mansion and remember the other fellow who isn't governor and who doesn't live in a mansion."

But little aid or comfort I have been able to give the man, woman or child whom anybody hears about and nobody seems to care about will give me more satisfaction in years to come than all the glory I can get out of being governor. A man to make good in this office must be a human being above all.

HUMAN ALL THE TIME
Smith works hard at the job of being human all the time. When he makes a speech the audience feels as if they were there because they wanted to be not because it was a political duty.

Being popular isn't Smith's only trick in trade. Not only can he win popular support for a political policy or reform quicker than anybody else, but he is efficient in the bargain. He possesses a profound knowledge of state government.

The campaign's chief issue was one of efficiency. Smith's claim was that he ran the state for $11,000,000 less during his 1919-1920 term than Governor Miller did during 1921 and 1922.

Smith's pet project during his first term was to obtain an efficient economical and scientific administration. He tried to put over the reform of reorganizing the state government, and after getting it partly over the plan was thrown in the discard.

Now he promises to finish the job he started out to do—to simplify the government by reducing its 180 odd agencies to 15 compact departments.

"In amendment to the constitution," he says, "I would provide for a scientific executive budget, something that the Republican party thought good in the nation but were unwilling to give to the state."

A PROUD FATHER
Smith was educated in the parochial schools and Manhattan College and Fordham University. He is married and has five children. His eldest son was 21 this year and cast his first vote for his father after having made a number of speeches for him during the campaign.

During his two years out of the governor's mansion Smith has been chairman of the board of the

PURE OIL COMPANY EXPANDING

Now Has Marketing Organization in Every State

RADES FOREIGN LANDS

Forbes Gives Out Data on Great Columbus Concern

(BY B. C. FORBES)

COLUMBUS.—(Special).—Easily the most interesting enterprise in this city is the Pure Oil Company which owns 5,000 producing oil wells, 4,000 miles of pipe line connecting with over 10,000 wells and has 5,500 employees. And it is only eight years old.

How nearly many millions dollars worth of hidden wealth was sold for a song forms a dramatic chapter in the company's unique history. Let me tell about it.

A local natural gas company, upon the brink of failure because its gas supply had given out, was taken hold of by B. G. Dawes, a youngish man, then making a brilliant record. Then only available gas fields were controlled by another company and they demanded too high a price for gas.

Mr. Dawes, while continuing the negotiations, sent an army of agents into West Virginia to lease prospective gas lands in Boone and Kanawha counties. They gathered together over two hundred thousand acres in leases. He then announced that the company would produce its own gas and he laid plans to build a 200 mile pipe line from West Virginia to Columbus. Then the other concern came off its perch and agreed to supply gas on favorable terms.

The Ohio Cities Gas Company was then (in 1914) incorporated and acquired all the capital stock of the Columbus Gas Company, Springfield Gas Company and Dayton Gas Company.

Some of the leases obtained in West Virginia specified that drilling operations must be immediately started. But Mr. Dawes had no money to start. He had to go to New York to get a loan.

While Mr. Dawes was in New York dickering with prospective buyers in January 1915, R. W. McIlwain, now vice president, was feverishly rushing to completion the first test. Unforeseen difficulties were encountered. On Jan. 10, 1915, a gas well was struck. It was of extremely high quality and it poured out at the rate of 100 barrels a day.

Mr. McIlwain was panic-stricken lest his superior close a deal before the great news could be communicated to him. There was no telephone line within miles. There was no railway station nearby. What could he do? What could he do?

Mr. McIlwain promptly set out on a mission to the nearest wayside railway station, miles distant. The first train that crawled along was a freight. He immediately boarded it and did his best to get it to make a record run to a point where he could get into communication with Mr. Dawes.

Had he been a little later the deal would have been closed. And the loss?

In seven years this property has yielded the company over $20,000,000 of net profits.

America has been rich in gold mining, silver mining, copper mining, oil field romances, and other business romances. But the country's annals contain no parallel to the Pure Oil Company's amazing growth and its spectacular earnings.

There is space here for only a few of the more notable facts.

The original pool which has not had to be protected from invasion by rivals, has consistently averaged 2,000 barrels a day during the last five years.

Properties acquired with the three Ohio Gas Companies had then a daily production of about 200 barrels pure oil production in Ohio now approximates 2,000 barrels daily, the largest of any company in the State.

In 1916 and 1917 it acquired a number of large oil properties, including the old Pure Oil Company of New Jersey, became an important operator in the mid-continent territory and now ranks fourth among Oklahoma producers.

Whereas the company drew 97 per cent of its earnings from gas in 1916, it produced 96 per cent of the earnings in 1920, and accordingly changed its name from Ohio Cities Gas to the Pure Oil Company.

Plans were at one time made to invade Mexico on a large scale. But although the company now has 200,000 acres in prospective oil territories, it has not tapped that source of supply.

Pure Oil also has hundreds of thousands of acres in South American oil areas.

It owns a twenty-five per cent interest in the Humphreys Oil Company whose production in Texas has been averaging about 30,000 barrels a day.

Of late the company has been aggressively extending its marketing organizations. It now markets in every state in the Union thru central organizations in Boston, New York, Atlanta, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Columbus, Minneapolis, Tulsa, Dallas and San Francisco.

Within the last year its foreign business has been developed enormously thru the acquisition of important companies in Germany, Belgium, Holland, Spain and Portugal. The German company, for example, has three refineries with vast storage facilities at Hamburg and operates its own tank cars.

Recently the Pure Oil Steamship Company was organized to purchase and operate a fleet of tankers.

ONE CENT SALE!

Thursday, Friday and Saturday
NOVEMBER 9th, 10th, 11th

What is a One-Cent Sale? It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price—then another item of the same kind for 1c. As an illustration: The standard price of Rexall Orderlies is 50c. You buy a box at this price, and by paying 1c more, or 51c, you get two boxes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as we sell you every day at the regular prices and have sold you for years.

A New Way of Advertising This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full-size package of high standard merchandise for 1c. It costs money to get customers, the loss taken on this sale will be well spent if the goods please you.

Important Topics Discussed For School Students

European financiers, Americans, advising, are wrestling with the problem of payment by Germany to the Allies for their losses in the war. Chancellor Wirth of Germany has said his country probably will not pay if the claims against her are just now.

Others believe this. Others do not. However, it is agreed quite generally that it may be unwise to insist on immediate payment by a nation which undoubtedly is pinched terribly for money, but may be able to pay up if given sufficient time. It is unwise to press an individual similarly situated—the idea being that the money and not the debtor's ruin is what the creditor wants.

But France says she cannot wait for Germany unless her own creditors will wait for her. For this reason many of the financiers suggest a general moratorium—that is, an arrangement by which payment of debts is suspended for a certain length of time. In this instance five years is the shortest period mentioned.

Of course the United States is concerned vitally since she is France's and the rest of the allies' principal creditor. Undoubtedly she will grant all necessary time for repayment of the money she loaned during the war, but again it has been made clear that she will not cancel these obligations, as some of the debtors have more than hinted at.

For one thing, the money is right fully hers. For another thing, she has no inclination to make a present of it to powers which could pay it back again if they order of their military expenditures—a thing they show no signs of doing.

President Harding reaffirmed this position only a few days ago.

DIPLOMATS WORRIED BY FASCISTI

The new Fascist regime in Italy worries Europe. The Fascists were dissatisfied with what Italy got out of the war. It is thought quite likely, now they are in power, that they will try to get more. This would disarrange the peace settlement, which surely would cause trouble, and even a little trouble, in Europe, has such a tendency to spread.

To begin with, diplomats believe the Fascist government will undertake to make an Italian lake out of the Adriatic Sea (find it on the map).

Albania, on the eastern Adriatic shore, is having a revolution now. It is the Fascists' excuse for sending troops there. The turbulent Albanians, Gabriele d'Annunzio plans another filibustering descent on Fiume (find also Albania and Fiume on the map). There would be dynamite in either of these ventures.

Bulgaria fears a Fascist ambition that could be used only at her expense. So does Yugoslavia. These two are discussing a defensive alliance which, in turn, alarms Rumania. Hungary thinks she might profit by a squabble in that quarter. Turkey has a war with Italy just before the world conflict, and certainly would resist any spread of Italian power far in her direction.

There is much anti-France feeling in Italy, which France resents. Early accounts indicated that the Fascist acquired power in Italy by almost unanimous consent. Italians arriving abroad, fugitives from Fascist hatred, tell a different story. They say Italian labor is strongly anti-Fascist but that the Fascist "dictator" is the new.

For Premier Benito Mussolini, Fascist leader, one good thing can be said. Wobbling statesmanship has delayed Europe's return to "normalcy." Mussolini seems no wobbler, but a strong man, unafraid of responsibility and with a definite policy.

What Europe fears is that he will carry it too far—too far at any rate to suit others than the Fascist themselves.

IS ISLAM COMING BACK?

There are signs of a great Mohammedan revival in the world. Turkey is the movement's center, because Mohammedans always regarded Turkey as their mother land. Even those who lived under other governments have hoped for a day when they would come again under the sway of a ruler of their own faith.

Kemal Pasha's successes have crystallized these hopes. As a first step toward the unification of all Islam it seemed to Kemal necessary to divorce the functions of Mohammedan political and religious leadership.

Historic, since the time of Mohammed himself the same individual has been both temporal ruler of the "faithful" and head of their church. This combination worked well for some generations, but for centuries it has been an outward sign of weakness, and during all these centuries Mohammedanism has been on a decline.

For Indigestion

M-I-O-Na is a powerful stomachic. Promptly Relieves Stomach Distress.

People go on suffering from all stomach troubles for years, imagining they have a serious illness. They exert and force on the stomach a lot of extra work. But they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do extra work. If these people would take a M-I-O-Na Tablet with or after meals it would be a big help to the stomach in its strain of overwork. M-I-O-Na helps the tired stomach to do its work and banishes the cause. No matter what you eat or drink, M-I-O-Na will sweeten your stomach and stop gas building in five minutes. The heartburn disappears and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion. And M-I-O-Na not only promptly relieves all distress but if taken regularly will banish indigestion forever. Druggists everywhere and the Thompson Drug Store sell M-I-O-Na on the money back plan—adv.

And Kemal having no great gains for Turkey, where the sultan had lost, was in a position to dictate. He laid his plan before the assembly at Angora in Asia Minor, present seat of the Turkish nationalist government, and the assembly adopted it.

It voted the sultan's rule at an end. It voted to govern Turkey itself in future. It voted to select its own ruler for the Turkish republic.

The assembly is understood to plan the election of some member of the present sultan's family as temporal ruler, but it is safe to say that Kemal will be a virtual dictator while he lives.

The outcome depends largely upon his qualities, which have appeared thus far to be first class.

Kemal is Mohammedan and is called, has been so long a caliph that his growth is hardly to be regarded lightly, but the fact is that there are about 230,000,000 of the "faithful" in the world, of whom 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 more than all the protestant Christians combined.

Kemal hopes to unite them. The loosening of marital ties which had endured for a period of 25 years was disclosed Wednesday by the filing of a divorce petition in common pleas court by Mrs. Ida Bowman, charging John L. Bowman with neglect.

The plaintiff sets forth in her petition to the court that she was married in Kenton in 1886 and is the mother of five children all adults. Bowman asserts that in recent years failed to contribute to her support and has been guilty of cruelty and neglect.

The Lima Sunday News has more circulation in Lima and the Lima district for 35 miles around than any other paper in America ever secured in a city of 41,000.

Mrs. Philip J. Fitzpatrick, wife of a lieutenant in the 107th New York regiment, is accused by her husband of having a love affair with Colonel Wade H. Hynes (above). The lieutenant has sued his commanding officer for $100,000.

PARADES TO SEE OWN PAGEANT

Armistice Procession Plans Near-Coming Desired Perfection

Success of the Armistice Day celebration from a financial standpoint is a certainty, although all the money necessary has not been received, it was announced at the chamber of commerce Wednesday.

More than $200 has been received. Appeals have been sent out for $200 more in order that all expenses may be met. Every effort is being made to keep the expenses as low as possible.

Enough trucks to carry all the floats being designed have been promised by local contractors, by the state hospital and by industrial concerns.

It is predicted that the total number of floats in the parade will be between 25 and 30 and that the marchers may number 2,000 or more.

Hearty cooperation of the majority of the ex-service men in the county is indicated by reports reaching Colonel John Harter, grand marshal. "Every ex-soldier in uniform and in the parade," is the slogan.

Arrangements whereby every participant in the parade will be entitled to see a portion of the parade will be evolved at a joint meeting of a general committee and the parade committee at the chamber of commerce Wednesday night.

A line of march and the formation of the various organizations to obtain the very best effect is expected to require considerable work by the committee.

MOONSHINERS ALL DODGE PREACHER

ROME, Ga.—The Carrie Nation of the moonshine belt. That's what they call Rev. Robert Stewart, minister, who battles the bootleggers of northern Georgia. Alabama and southern Tennessee both from his pulpit and on their own grounds.

One night, he'll preach to his little denning 11111111 congregation, con liquor making. Next day he leads a group of dry officers against moonshine plants in the neighborhood, and helps break up the stills.

His life has been threatened, but Rev. Stewart keeps right after the liquor ring.

"Preaching is all right, but more than that is needed to stop them making liquor," says Stewart. "I try to convert them by preaching. If that fails, I fight them with the law."

Notice of Public Improvement

Notice is hereby given that on October 30th, 1922, the City Commission of Lima, Ohio, passed a Resolution No. 637, declaring it necessary to improve Fairview Avenue from Collett Street to McDonel Street by paving, with either brick, sheet asphalt, asphaltic concrete, bituminous macadam, bitulithic or creosoted wood block, together with the necessary grading, curbing, guttering, etc. The Grade of said street, and the grade and elevation of the curbs shall be as established by the City Engineer, and the improvement shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles now on file in the office of the City Engineer. That the whole cost and expense of said improvement shall be assessed against all the lots and lands bounding and abutting on said street, from Collett Street to McDonel Street, which lots are determined to be specially benefited by said improvement. All sewer, water, gas and telephone, and other underground connections, conduits and service lines in and under said portion of said street included in this improvement shall be constructed and installed within Ninety (90) days from the passage of this Resolution.

Harry N. Osgood, Clerk of the Commission. Lima News, Nov. 8th, 1922

Ordinance No. 1469

AN ORDINANCE VACATING CERTAIN STREETS AND ALLEYS IN THE CITY OF LIMA, OHIO.

WHEREAS, on the 23rd day of October, 1922, a petition by persons owning lots and lands in the immediate vicinity of and abutting upon the portions of the Streets, Alleys and Avenues, hereinafter described, was duly presented to the City Commission of the City of Lima, Ohio, praying that the following Streets and Alleys be vacated, to wit:

(1) The Public Alley between Birch Avenue and Metcalf Street, running from the North line of Ashton Avenue to the North line of Out-lots No. 264 and No. 268.

(2) Also, a Public Alley between Birch Avenue and McDonel Street, running from the North line of Ashton Avenue to the North line of Out-lots No. 269 and No. 270.

(3) Also, a Public Alley between McDonel Street and West Street running from the North line of O'Connor Avenue to the North line of Out-lots No. 271 and No. 272.

(4) Also, a strip of ground Fifteen (15) feet wide along the East side of McDonel Street, running from the North line of Ashton Avenue to the North line of Out-lots No. 271 and No. 272.

(5) Also, a strip of ground Fifteen (15) feet wide along the West side of McDonel Street, running from the North line of Ashton Avenue to the North line of Out-lots No. 271 and No. 272.

(6) Also, a strip of ground Three (3) feet wide along the North side of O'Connor Avenue, running from West Street to Metcalf Street; and

WHEREAS, the City Commission upon hearing is satisfied that there is good cause for such vacation as prayed for; that it will not be detrimental to the general interest, and is necessary, and ought to be made now, therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LIMA, STATE OF OHIO:

BAN ON TAG DAYS

A GITATION has been started in a number of cities, particularly Chicago, against tag days. In some places legislation is being sought to ban this method of raising funds for various purposes. In most cases charitable undertakings.

The reason for this action is apparent. Some years ago someone had a bright idea. He started a tag day to raise money and it went over big. Others copied the plan, as usual, and met with success. The system has been carried down to the present day and in reality has become a curse. It is overdue.

How many persons have you heard complaining about a tag day in Lima every week? And the chances are that they were men or women who would gladly have opened their purses for charity had they been approached in a different manner. Then there is another side. Visitors to the city from the surrounding territory become disgusted when they are compelled to buy a tag as soon as they land on our streets or be annoyed through their stay in the city. Solicitation of funds by this method tends to keep people out of Lima.

Tag days have become a nuisance. The city administration would do well to take steps to abolish the practice here before another summer. This should not be done in the spirit of curbing charity and contributions to charity. It should be done as a protective measure to our citizens and those who visit us.

VOTING BOND ISSUES

NOW that the election is over and the people of Lima and Allen-co have again passed upon propositions to issue bonds which were designed by their proponents to affect all the people in country or city, as the case may be, comment on the conditions surrounding bond issues generally is pertinent.

Under existing laws, proposed bond issues prevail when they are accorded a majority of the total vote cast on the propositions. However, in some instances, as further provided by law, such propositions must be given a two-thirds majority of all the votes cast, or be declared lost.

Right here is disclosed what might be termed an inconsistency in government and a condition that is not in accord with majority government. It is due to lack of apathy in elections. It is not such a serious matter that minorities elect officials as it is that minorities, quite too often vote bond issues on all the people.

There is only one remedy and that is a requirement that proposals to bond any community should be required to have the sanction of a majority of the whole number of electors in the territory affected. This would do two things—increase interest in elections and bring out the total vote; the result would be the will of the majority, win or lose.

Many public men are pointing out the inconsistency of the present plan, but it must be admitted that those who do not register their will either for or against any proposition presented in an election, have no one save themselves to blame if a minority of the total number of voters is declared a majority in declaring for or against the proposal, as the case may be.

This same idea might be carried farther, affecting the selection of officials, the adoption or rejection of proposed amendment affecting taxation and other things vital to the people as a whole. We pride ourselves upon living under a form of government where "majority rules," but it is not wholly true so long as only a percentage of the total number of voters participate in elections. But how to induce all to vote—aye, that's the rub.

PAYING

A MERICANS who feared that we'd "never get back the money we loaned to Europe" were surprised at England's recent payment of $70,000,000 as part of the interest on what she owes us.

More interesting, this brings her total payments, as principal and interest on her debt to our government, up to more than $361,000,000.

John Bull more than intends to pay, he is actually paying.

to find one's paper missing. These little things are the really intimate problems of life. If you doubt it, try to start a conversation about the politicians or tariff with the man who's just discovered his evening paper stolen.

ACCIDENT

FOURTEEN million pounds of dynamite and powder were exploded last year in rock quarries worked by cement companies.

And not a single serious injury resulted to any of the men who handled the explosives.

Reason: Recognizing their danger, they were cautious.

Danger doesn't matter much. What counts is carefulness. Ninety-nine of accidents are due to carelessness, not hazard.

PLAIN AND FANCY BRONCHITIS

Plain uncomplicated chronic bronchitis, that is to say annually recurring winter cough in elderly persons, is usually benefited by removal to a climate which coaxes the (mentally) aged sufferer to spend more time in the open air, say Egypt, southern France, Florida, or California. But in the fancier kinds of chronic bronchitis no marked benefit can be expected from a change of climate. Unfortunately most cases of bronchitis are of the fancy variety.

Thus chronic bronchitis is most frequently found in persons who have chronic nephritis (Bright's disease), or heart disease, or emphysema (the air spaces of the lung overstretched and dilated), or bronchiectasis (dilation of a bronchial tube) or asthma, or pneumoconiosis (a kind of hardening of the lung tissue caused by prolonged irritation from coal dust, stone dust, grain dust, cotton and other textile dusts, in persons exposed thru occupation).

Emphysema involving any considerable part of the lung means that the chest is overdistended, and usually the individual has a thick barrel shaped chest, sometimes an enormous chest but one with very little elasticity, that is, the individual can expand and contract his chest only an inch or so at best, whereas a normal chest varies two or three inches from contraction to expansion, sometimes four or five inches. The emphysematous lung is constantly overfilled with air, literally ballooned. The subject of emphysema lacks the power to exhale freely; he draws in a breath and then obviously strains to expire, without any muscular effort, just thru their own elasticity. It is a fact quite beyond my ken, that in chronic emphysema the chest wall and the muscles of natural or unconscious breathing seem to acquire rigidity and lose their normal elasticity, perhaps, from lack of use.

Persons with emphysema wheeze all the time. They often imagine they have "asthma" because they wheeze and have so much difficulty in breathing. To be sure, their predicament is much like that of the subject of asthma, save in emphysema the difficulty is constant. With no intermissions, while in asthma, the difficulty is only temporary, for the duration of the attacks. The emphysematous person has short of breath on slight exertion, wheezing painfully from running up a flight of stairs, for instance. Children sometimes have emphysema, and in child or adult there is usually more or less chronic dilatation of the right side of the heart associated with this difficulty, and this compensatory change in the heart accounts for the peculiar blueness or cyanosis which persons with emphysema show. Probably but one other cause of cyanosis or blueness of skin, nails and lips produces such striking cyanosis as emphysema does, in persons able to be up and about, and that is poisoning by the coal tar pain killers such as acetanilide, phenacetin, phenylacetamide, acetophenetidin, antipyrin, aspirin, etc., in innumerable alleged "cold," "grip" headache and neuralgia preparations. Bleeding is sometimes necessary to relieve the breathing when

THE FLAMING JEWEL

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

CHAPTER 111
Eve picked up her rifle. She was trembling violently. Then, masterfully controlling her emotion, she walked over to the pack, placed Quintana's rifle in the pack, placed it in the trunk, and buckled it to her shoulders, and buckled it to her shoulders, and buckled it to her shoulders.

"THEY ARE CARRYING HIM OUT."

Over her shoulder she kept an eye on Quintana who crouched where he had fallen, unstrapping his rifle. She placed the muzzle of her rifle against his stomach, rested it so, holding it with one hand, and her finger at the trigger. At her brief order, he turned out his breeches pockets. She herself scooped and drew the Spanish clasp-knife from its sheath at his belt, took a pistol from the holster, reached out of his hip pocket, and dropped it into the pack. "You're broke," she said slowly. "Your rifle is broken. I'll send some one from Ghost Lake to find you. But whether you've a broken bone or not you'll not go very far, Quintana. After I'm gone you'll be able to free yourself. But you can't get away. You'll be followed and caught. So if you can walk at all you'd better go in to Ghost Lake and give yourself up. It's that or starvation."

It was a watch. "Don't stir. You've got a trap for half an hour. That's all."

As she moved away toward the Drowned Valley trail she looked back at him. His face was blood-red but his black eyes blazed.

"If ever you come into this forest again," she said, "my father will surely kill you."

To her horror Quintana slowly grinned at her. The still grin, she thought, was the grin of a man who had just won a great victory.

Whatever he meant by the gesture it seemed unclear, horrible; and the girl hurried on, seized with an overwhelming loathing thru which a sort of terror pulsated like a premonition in a heavy and tortured heart.

Straight into the fire of dawn she sped. A pale phosphorescent light glimmered thru the woods; tree bushes, undergrowth turned a dusky purple. Already the few small clouds overhead were edged with fiery rose.

Then, of a sudden, a shaft of flame played over the forest. The sun had risen.

Hastening, she searched the soft path for any imprint of her father's foot. And even in the vain search she hoped to find him at home—buried under a pile of rifles and a pack, still all nervous and quivering from her encounter with Quintana.

Surely, surely, she thought, if he had missed Quintana in Drowned Valley he would not linger in that bloody place. He'd come home, call in his men, take counsel perhaps—

Just over Star Pond was discharging a golden powder in the "dancing" of the sun. The "dancing" of the sun. The "dancing" of the sun. The "dancing" of the sun.

Down thru withered woods and fern she hurried, ran across the moss to the kitchen door which swung ajar under its porch.

"Dad!" she called. "Dad!" Only her own frightened voice echoed in the empty house. She rambled the stairs to his room. The door lay undisturbed as she had made it. He was not in any of the rooms; there were no signs of him.

Slowly she descended to the kitchen. He was not there. The food she had prepared for him had become cold on a chilled range.

For a long while she stood staring thru the window at the sunlight outside. Probably, since Quintana had eluded him, he'd come home for something to eat. Surely, now that Quintana had escaped, Dad would come back for breakfast.

Lve slipped the pack from her shoulders, unlocked it, and took out the paper with the names of all my subjects on it.

Mother Goose's broom was lost and Nancy and Nick were hunting for it. Mother Goose told them that there wasn't a doubt in her mind that one of her own people had stolen it, or borrowed it, or taken it—or whatever you wish to call it.

And she needed it terribly. Not only were the cobwebs getting bad, but Mother Goose used her broom for other things besides. For one thing, she rode it. It was quite as necessary as the Fairy Queen's wings were to her, or the magic Green Shoes were to the Twins, or your bicycle to you, or your daddy's automobile to him.

back and laid it on the kitchen table. There was kindling in the wood-box. She shook down the cinders, laid a fire, soaked it with kerosene, lighted it, filled the kettle with fresh water.

In the pantry, she cut some ham, and found eggs, condensed milk, butter, bread, and an apple pie. After she had ground the coffee she placed all these on a tray and carried them into the kitchen.

Now there was nothing more to do until her father came, and she sat down by the kitchen table to wait.

Outside the sunlight was becoming warm and vivid. There had been no frost after all—or, at most, merely a white trace in the shadow on a fallen plank here and there—but not enough to freeze the ground. And, in the sunshine, it all quickly turned to dew, and glittered and sparkled in a million hues and tints like gems—like that handful of jewels she had poured into her father's joined palms—yesterday—there at the ghostly edge of Drowned Valley.

At the memory, and quite mechanically, she turned in her chair and drew Quintana's basket pack toward her.

First she lifted out his rifle, examined it, set it against the window sill. Then, one by one, she drew out two pistols, loaded; the murderous Spanish clasp-knife; an ax; a fry-pan and a tin pail, and the rolled-up mackinaw.

Under these the pack seemed to contain nothing except food and ammunition; staples in sacks and a few cans—lard, salt, tea—such things.

The cartridge boxes she piled up on the table; the food she tossed into a tin will bucket.

About the effects of this man it seemed to her as tho something unclean lingered. She could scarcely bear to handle them—threw them from her with disgust.

The garment, also—the heavy brown and green mackinaw—she disliked to touch. To throw it out doors was her intention; but, as she lifted the coat, it unrolled and some things fell from the pockets to the kitchen table—money, keys, a watch, a flat leather case—

She looked stupidly at the case. It had a coat of arms emblazoned on it.

Still, stupidly and as she dared, she laid one hand on it, drew it to her, opened it.

The Flaming Jewel blazed in her face amid a heap of glittering gems. Still she seemed slow to comprehend—as the understanding were paralyzed.

It was when her eyes fell upon the watch that her heart seemed to stop. Suddenly her stunned senses were lighted as by an infernal flare.

Under the awful blow she swayed upright to her feet, sick with fright, her eyes fixed on her father's watch.

It was still ticking. She did not know whether she cried out in anguish or was dumb under it. The house seemed to reel around her; under foot too.

When she came to her senses she found herself outside the house, running with her rifle, already entering the woods. But, inside the barrier of trees, something blocked her way, stopped her—a man—her man!

"Eve! In God's name!" he said as she struggled in his arms; but she fought him and strove to tear her body from his embrace.

"They've killed Dad!" she panted—"Quintana killed him. I didn't know—oh, I didn't know!—and I let Quintana go! Oh, Jack, Jack, he's at the Place of Pines! I'm going there to shoot him! Let me go!—he's killed Dad, I tell you! He had Dad's watch—and the case of jewels—they were in his pack on the kitchen table!"

"Eve!" "Let me go!" "Eve!" He held her rigid a moment in his powerful grip, compelled her dazed, half-crazed eyes to meet his own.

"You must come to your senses," he said. "Listen to what I say: they are bringing in your father." Her dilated blue eyes never moved from his.

"We found him in Drowned Valley at sunrise," said Stormont quietly. "The men are only a few rods behind me. They are carrying him out."

Her lips made a word without sound. "Yes," said Stormont in a low voice.

There was a sound in the woods behind them. Stormont turned. Far away down the trail the men came into sight.

Then the State Trooper turned the girl very gently and placed one arm around her shoulders.

Very slowly they descended the hill together. His equipment was shining in the morning sun; and the sun fell on Eve's drooping head, turning her chestnut hair to fiery gold.

An hour later Trooper Stormont was at the Place of Pines. There was nothing there except an empty tray and the ashes of the dying fire beyond.

Now For That Broom

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Here's a paper with the names of all my subjects on it."

Mother Goose's broom was lost and Nancy and Nick were hunting for it. Mother Goose told them that there wasn't a doubt in her mind that one of her own people had stolen it, or borrowed it, or taken it—or whatever you wish to call it.

And she needed it terribly. Not only were the cobwebs getting bad, but Mother Goose used her broom for other things besides. For one thing, she rode it. It was quite as necessary as the Fairy Queen's wings were to her, or the magic Green Shoes were to the Twins, or your bicycle to you, or your daddy's automobile to him.

For another thing, she used it to keep order. Not that many of her people needed a broomstick, but there were times when it was necessary. Take Tom, the Piper's son, for instance, who stole a pig. The broom says the pig was eat (quite wrong—it should be "eaten") and Tom was beat, but it doesn't say who beat him or what beat him. So it must have been Mother Goose's magical broomstick.

For another thing, Mother Goose loved her broomstick dearly, and she didn't wish to lose it.

So you see how important it was for her to get it back.

"Now, my dears," she said to the Twins as they were starting off. "Here is a paper with the names of all my subjects on it. Each one lives on a star in the sky, and your Green Shoes will take you there in a hurry."

"Humpty Dumpty's friends may know where my broom is, for if it is true that he is smashed, no doubt the King needs my broom to sweep him up. Suppose you go there first."

MICKEY WALKER, NEW WELTER CHAMP; ASPIRES TO MIDDLEWEIGHT CROWN

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Mickey Walker, just getting rid of what thrills may accompany accession to a ring championship is looking for more.
The new welterweight champion is announced by his manager as a candidate for the middleweight crown, now held by Johnny Wilson, Dave Rosenberg, Bryan Downey and other sectional clan leaders.

In getting ambitious like this, Walker shows symptoms of being infected with the bite of a bug that has been working on most of the other champions.
Fighting in the next higher class is the most approved modern method of avoiding dangers within one's own kingdom.
Instead of meeting a couple of very dangerous little fellows in the flyweight class, Pancho Villa, the little champion, is branching out in the junior bantam class.

His next fight is with Abe Goldstein, and if he does lose, he will still hold his title.
Joe Lynch, after grabbing the bantamweight title, drew a sudden dislike for the class and he is casting his eyes toward the featherweight title held safely by Johnny Kilbane. Before he can do any fighting, however, Lynch must make a few amendments because he is in very bad right now with the boxing commission and the fans.

Lynch may never be rated as the greatest champion of his class but by long odds he will go down as the greatest in-and-out of his weight. His friends say he is not in good health.

Benny Leonard, being none too desirous of making 135 pounds, tried not long ago to get the welter championship and he failed. Since the easy strike up before he defends his title, it may become necessary, however, for the boxing commissions to enact a ruling on what constitutes a fair clean up.
Walker may have only the best of motives in wanting to fight as a middleweight and he may have other purposes when good boxers as Dave Doyle, George Ward and Paul Dwyer are vying for his heels for a crack at the title.

Little Walker is in a rather tight place because in addition to the young welterweights he eventually will have on his hands a lot of veteran graduates from the lightweight class, including Leonard.

Rockne Looks For Big Year At Notre Dame

The football team that represented Notre Dame last year was one of the greatest in the country. Many experts feared that Notre Dame had a made on any other team.

The open game as played by Notre Dame, featuring a number of intricate formations and many exciting plays, was the talk of the east, after Coach Rockne's team had played two games in that section.

BABE RUTH MUST ADHERE TO TRAINING OR PASS OUT

One year ago Babe Ruth was baseball's largest hero.

Today Babe Ruth is regarded in the light of a very ordinary player by himself.

Ruth, because of his ability to hit home runs, became the idol of the fans over night. They are forgetting him just as quickly.

Ruth, with his pony batting average of .118, was the "bust" of the 1922 series.

Success in any sport depends on combination of brain, eye and muscle.

Jack Dempsey is the heavyweight champion because he possesses those three qualities. Babe Ruth is the world's greatest tennis player for the same reason.

Babe Ruth, when he was the talk of the baseball world, because of his marvelous slugging powers, possessed combination of brain, eye and muscle.

For two years the brain end of the game has been passed up by Ruth. He has traveled along on past reputation. Little or no attention to training soon robbed the eye and muscle of their value.

In Babe Ruth thru or can he come back? That is a question of great interest to the New York American League owners who are building a new park seating 65,000 people.

Ruth's only hope. Will he realize it on to fill that park on many an occasion.

Strict adherence to training is Ruth's only hope. If he realize it before it is too late. Possibly not.

W. And J. Seeking Clean Slate

WASHINGTON, Pa.—Coach Treacy Neale's victorious Washington and Jefferson football team, which on Saturday by a game struggle defeated Lafayette 11 to 13 at the Polo Grounds, New York, has four more games to play and a fair chance to pass thru the season without being defeated.

Washington and Jefferson now has played 18 games without losing, the record extending back into the latter games of the 1920 season.

To close this year with a record of not being defeated in 22 games, Washington and Jefferson must tie or defeat Wabash College of Wabash, Ind., here next Saturday.

Wabash defeated Purdue on Saturday and has been warned only once this year.

Wash-Jeff next meets Pittsburgh, a foe whom Neale's men defeated last year. Thereafter Wash-Jeff plays Detroit and West Virginia.

Dundee had never been knocked out before and never has since that time. Jackson naturally was hailed as a prospective champion and bouts for big purse came thick and fast.

In the last three years, Bagley earned $250,000 of which $120,000 was brought in thirteen months.

He began slipping last winter and perhaps he is passing the stage where he can improve, but he is still a good card and his earning power has by no means been stopped.

Benny Leonard, Jack Britton, Joe Lynch and other prominent New York boxers have become wealthy in their business because of a large personal following of friends that pack the house every time they work.

Jackson, never popular, cashed in almost as much because the house was packed every time he showed with fans who came in the hope of seeing him get the worst of it.

Both Bagley and Jackson knew of the feeling against him and in the head of working to overcome it they shrewdly played it up so that he became one of the best drawing cards in New York.

How much of an attraction Jackson was is shown in the figure presented by Bagley that in eight hours in Madison Garden Square, he and his opponents drew in excess of $488,000. One bout with Dundee brought a gate of $46,000 from 14,000 spectators at prices of $1 to $5. Another bout with Eddie Fitzsimmons drew $68,000 and a match with Rocky Kansas brought in $58,000.

Bagley claims that their break was not caused by ill feeling and that they are still on good terms. Jackson wanted to make a trip to Australia and engage in some four-rounders in California and Bagley, having a big stable, could not afford the time, so he turned over a five-year contract to Sammy Goldman, manager of Pete Herman, former bantamweight champion.

Herman by the way, is in bad shape in New York and up on the verge of total blindness. Several years ago a cataract developed on one of his eyes but he gamely stuck to his business against the advice of doctors and the results were so serious that the doctors now fear that they will not be able to save his eyes.

Herman has done well. He has made a lot of money and has invested it wisely, according to his friends, so that if he is forced to give up boxing his wife and little girls will not be in need.

His wife insists that he shall retire from the ring if he does recover but little Peter has an idea that he can win the bantam title again and make a record of having won a championship three times.

SIKI'S LIFE STORY

By BATTING SIKI
As Told to Milton Brommer
Chapter Five—Dutch Romance and Fights

In 1920, life played another queer trick on me. I was a German dancer who took me from Senegal to France, and so to the war and the boxing ring.

It was a French boxing teacher who took me from Paris to Rotterdam. This led to marriage with a Dutch woman, battles in Holland and Germany, and finally, a chance at the big men in Europe.

Professor Monnet, a French boxing instructor, had heard of me in Paris and saw me beat Dennyzy. He was called to Rotterdam to instruct Dutch youths. Also, he got up boxing contests. He thought I would be useful, as the Dutch were willing to pay to see fights.

I got board with the Van Appel terre family, Dutch farmer who came to town to live. He was a wine dealer in a small way. They were nice to me and did not charge a large sum.

That's how I met my future wife—other daughter, Lydie. I don't suppose her parents were anxious for her marrying me. But I found she cared for me as I cared for her, and we skipped over to Paris and were married by a magistrate.

We've got a baby that we named Louis. He is neither black like me nor white like his mamma. He's late-at-late—coffee with milk in it. I don't know how to make Louis a fighter, but if he has a punch later like he has lungs now he will be a champion.

The Dutch have been very good to me. They have been as friendly as the French. I have fought a lot of fights in Holland and the crowd always seems glad I won.

DUTCH FETE HIM.

They consider I belong to them since I married a Dutch girl. When I won my fight with Carpenter, lots of Dutch sent me messages. After the fight, to get away from Paris and rest, I came to Rotterdam.

There was a big crowd at the station to cheer me. Afterward, some of the sport lovers gave a big dinner for me. They had a procession. They had me in a carriage drawn by four horses, and drove me all over the city like a regular negro king and people threw flowers into the carriage and cheered.

"Hurrah for France and Siki!" they cried.

After I had won a lot of fights in Holland, I went to Germany. In January, 1911, I beat Breitenstrater on points in 15 rounds. A month later, I beat Spala.

I wasn't sure how I'd be treated in Germany. They remembered what fighters the Senegalese were, and there were a lot of colored troops with the French on the Rhine now. But I can't kick. They gave me a square deal. I couldn't ask better of a French or Dutch crowd.

And by the way, that's why I would prefer to meet your big American boxers over here. I understand American crowds are not friendly to colored boxers. I don't want the heat of it, but I don't want to box before a crowd which would be yelling at me and showing they didn't like me.

BIG MONEY IN FIGHT GAME

NEW YORK—Possibilities of the boxing game provide for a willful worker and a good manager are well illustrated in the case of Willie Jackson, New York lightweight and pugilist very recently a prominent contender for Benny Leonard's title.

Jackson's financial success in the ring made public recently by Frank "Doc" Bagley, his former manager where the pair decided to sever a business relationship that had existed for eight years.

Back in 1914 Jackson was a sixteen-year-old stripling, weighing ninety-eight pounds and working as an errand boy for the large sum of $8 a week.

Like Benny Leonard and many other prominent boxers, Jackson had a keen interest in the boxing game and he used to spend most of his time around the gymnasium and the old Fairmont Athletic Club, which was then the "garden" of New York.

Bagley was then handling a number of boxers and he saw some promise in the youngster and after some little training and tutoring he landed Jackson in a preliminary at the Fairmont, for which he received $9. His development was slow but he was carefully handled and brought along by shrewd management until 1917 when he became a headliner by knocking out Johnny Dundee in two minutes and thirty-six seconds of a bout in Philadelphia.

Dundee had never been knocked out before and never has since that time. Jackson naturally was hailed as a prospective champion and bouts for big purse came thick and fast.

In the last three years, Bagley earned $250,000 of which $120,000 was brought in thirteen months.

He began slipping last winter and perhaps he is passing the stage where he can improve, but he is still a good card and his earning power has by no means been stopped.

Benny Leonard, Jack Britton, Joe Lynch and other prominent New York boxers have become wealthy in their business because of a large personal following of friends that pack the house every time they work.

Jackson, never popular, cashed in almost as much because the house was packed every time he showed with fans who came in the hope of seeing him get the worst of it.

Both Bagley and Jackson knew of the feeling against him and in the head of working to overcome it they shrewdly played it up so that he became one of the best drawing cards in New York.

How much of an attraction Jackson was is shown in the figure presented by Bagley that in eight hours in Madison Garden Square, he and his opponents drew in excess of $488,000. One bout with Dundee brought a gate of $46,000 from 14,000 spectators at prices of $1 to $5. Another bout with Eddie Fitzsimmons drew $68,000 and a match with Rocky Kansas brought in $58,000.

Bagley claims that their break was not caused by ill feeling and that they are still on good terms. Jackson wanted to make a trip to Australia and engage in some four-rounders in California and Bagley, having a big stable, could not afford the time, so he turned over a five-year contract to Sammy Goldman, manager of Pete Herman, former bantamweight champion.

Herman by the way, is in bad shape in New York and up on the verge of total blindness. Several years ago a cataract developed on one of his eyes but he gamely stuck to his business against the advice of doctors and the results were so serious that the doctors now fear that they will not be able to save his eyes.

Herman has done well. He has made a lot of money and has invested it wisely, according to his friends, so that if he is forced to give up boxing his wife and little girls will not be in need.

His wife insists that he shall retire from the ring if he does recover but little Peter has an idea that he can win the bantam title again and make a record of having won a championship three times.

The first score made by Princeton was the result of a 45-yard pass, Cleaves to Gray. The second score was made by Gray who recovered a fumble and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. The final touchdown was largely the result of a series of successful passes.

In football as in any other sport, the winning team is an aggregation that mixes 'em up. A successful eleven must have a variety of plays and formations. The system must be diversified so that the opposition can soon wise itself up to the style of play.

The play I have in mind as one of the greatest I ever saw pulled was staged in this manner: Chicago kicked off to Princeton. Gorman received the ball on the 7-yard line, ran a few feet and then turned and hurried a long pass to Cleaves who ran the ball to midfield.

It seemed there was no other play to make except a punt by Princeton. Cleaves dropped back about 10 yards behind the goal line and apparently set himself for a punt. The ball fell momentarily while five or six Chicago players broke through to block the kick. It seemed as if they would.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Open play in football may be risky but it is a great weapon for a team that is being outplayed in the line.

In the now memorable game between Princeton and Chicago the latter team had much the better line. Chicago, until the final period, gained almost at will through the "Tiger line," while Princeton could make little or no headway against the Chicago forwards.

It didn't take Quarterback Gorman of Princeton very long to realize that he was up against it as far as making any worthwhile gains through the line. It was apparent to him that Princeton must open up if it was to have a chance.

The first score made by Princeton was the result of a 45-yard pass, Cleaves to Gray. The second score was made by Gray who recovered a fumble and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. The final touchdown was largely the result of a series of successful passes.

In football as in any other sport, the winning team is an aggregation that mixes 'em up. A successful eleven must have a variety of plays and formations. The system must be diversified so that the opposition can soon wise itself up to the style of play.

The play I have in mind as one of the greatest I ever saw pulled was staged in this manner: Chicago kicked off to Princeton. Gorman received the ball on the 7-yard line, ran a few feet and then turned and hurried a long pass to Cleaves who ran the ball to midfield.

It seemed there was no other play to make except a punt by Princeton. Cleaves dropped back about 10 yards behind the goal line and apparently set himself for a punt. The ball fell momentarily while five or six Chicago players broke through to block the kick. It seemed as if

HAROLD LLOYD-AS ONE LEARNS HIM CASUALLY

(By JAMES W. DEAN)
INCIDENTS and snatches of conversation from a half day passed with Harold Lloyd probably will give a clearer impression of the man than an attempt to put my own impressions in words.
Here then the reader may get some idea of the man, a personal vignette.
Ten of us at lunch. Three came in. One of the tables making up the board is moved aside, so that 13 would not be sitting together. "What's his pet fink," says Gay, "Lloyd, his brother." "He has a little superstition but 13 at a table is his big one."
Office workers find some protest for coming by the door to catch a glimpse of Lloyd. That seems to please him. Without his horn-rimmed glasses, few recognize him on the street. He seems to have little idea of his great popularity.
Talk turns to the people of Hollywood. To hear Lloyd talk one gathers ers that he thinks almost everyone in the movies is greater than himself. He spoke disparagingly of only one person. "He's always treated me splendidly," he says. "But he is overbearing to others. I think he's egotistic."

About Mary and Doug. "Mary will never grow old to me," Lloyd says. "My first impression of the movies is Mary. I saw her in the days when I went with a nicker in my hand to get in the show. I want to see everything she's in. But isn't it funny—I have met almost everyone in the industry but Mary and Doug. I certainly would like to meet them. They are the 'Romeo and Juliet' of this age."
An offer is made for the spectacles Lloyd wears in his comedies. "I wouldn't part with them for the world," he says. "I still have the pair I wore in all my two-reelers. When I do rough work I put on another pair. When I give the good pair to the property boy, I say, 'Guard them with your life!'" in the Lost Cause in the granite of this rock.

If the production of grand opera at Stone Mountain proves practicable, and those back of the plan seem to think that it is, opera in the south, with a background of the most imposing monument in the world, will be an established institution.

Prize Beauty To Appear At Faurot On Thursday

HEADLINING the Faurot's attractive bill for the week-end starting on Thursday, is the Keith offering, Miss Mary Katherine Campbell, chosen as "Miss America" in a recent beauty contest held at Atlantic City.
Miss Campbell is a Columbus girl, 21 years of age, and was chosen from among hundreds of entrants from every state in the union, as the representative type of American beauty. A smart little act surrounds the young lady, and she wears stunning gowns in each number.
"Miss America" is another offering representative of the high class material which Manager Clark is bringing to his new theatre each week. The remaining four acts, such as the Keith circuit, are equally prominent and diverting.

OPERA IN MOUNTAINS PLANNED FOR ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Ga.—For several years Atlanta has enjoyed a grand opera season.
An experiment, recently completed, may have an influence on the local season. Miss Marie Tiffin, during a recent visit here, went through an experiment at Stone Mountain, the giant monolith that lies just outside the city, and proved that opera can be produced at the mountain. Miss Tiffin's voice was heard plainly at a distance of more than a mile.
Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, is, at present, working on an imposing monument to the Confederacy, carving the giant figures of the leaders.

A tremendous success was scored in Berlin by Eleanor W. Sawyer, American prima donna, when she appeared as Tosca at the Berlin State Opera House. Thirteen curtain calls were taken by Miss Sawyer who is the first American to appear in the former Royal Opera since the war.

In Bed Eight Months But the Plant Juice Relieved Stomach and Kidneys

IS NOW LIKE A NEW MAN

Crowds of Lima men and women are now calling daily to see the Plant Juice Man at his headquarters in Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, and have him explain his remarkable new herbal remedy, Plant Juice. News of the wonders

GEORGE W. EMERSON

Plant juice is accomplishing has spread rapidly over the entire city and hundreds of Lima people have started to take this medicine.
In many other cities and towns over the United States, more than a million grateful men and women are praising Plant Juice because of relief it gave them. For instance, at Toledo, O., recently, The Plant Juice Man received the following surprising testimony from Mr. George Emerson, who lives at Perryburg, O., a suburb of Toledo.
"My family was told that I could not live," said Mr. Emerson. "I was given up because of liver and kidney disease and yet, since I have taken your Plant Juice, I feel like a new man and certainly want to recommend your remedy."
"For eight months I was down in bed. Finally, when I was able to be up, I found it necessary to get up out of bed six to eight times every night because of my kidney trouble. My stomach was disordered and I could not eat anything without being in misery afterward. I kept reading in the papers about your Plant Juice and finally decided to try it and I want to say that this remedy has made a new man of me so that I feel better than for many months. My stomach is in good condition now and I can eat anything without misery of any kind afterward. My kidneys are in excellent shape and I surely want to recommend Plant Juice to everybody."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.
Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

It appeals to people of refined taste—Blue Devil.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning signs, get busy with good old Musterole.
Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.
It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.
Just rub it on with your fingertips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.
Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

BRINGING UP FATHER—

SHORT SHAVINGS

W. L. Parmenter, 803 W. Market, expresses his interest in the career of a stout housemaid named Minnie, who was employed for a short time at the home of a neighbor.

Her career there ended in a crash when she added downstairs with a breakfast tray, broke the creamer and two cups, the sugar bowl and other china, besides bonding the tray and two ribs.

She was a willing maid, but too strong. At her previous place it developed that when she answered the door for callers she pulled the door knob off.

Employment agent attendants told her to try to take it easier. She accepted the advice most amiably. It developed that she could mop a hall in record time. But she went at it with such energy that her mop knocked the feet out from under her next employer's husband.

Parmenter says the last he heard of her she had found a place on a farm, milking cows.

"I do hope she gets along all right," he says. "But she is so strong, I wouldn't be surprised to hear at any time that they have to leave her so because she breaks the cows' horns off."

Charles E. Fisher, 1450 S. Central-av., tells about a college freshman who began calling on a girl nearly every night. After the examinations were over he had passed in everything, and she had failed in three courses, the previously distinguished for scholarship.

Her mother called her to account. "I don't know why it is," wailed the girl, "but the woman always pays."

H. C. Scheide, of Shawnee, mentions casually that he grew a beet that weighed eight pounds and others which weighed almost as much on his farm.

He professes not to be particularly impressed by the achievement. He says, "The are just ordinary table size for heavy eaters in Shawnee."

A. C. Burton, 212 E. North-st., was startled by the crash of his big front window.

He saw two boys running and chased them. It developed that they were good little boys running to get to school on time. The window had been broken by a quail flying thru it.

QUIT CANADA TO LIVE IN MEXICO

Mennonites Have 22 Villages in New Colony

OUTGROWTH OF WORLD WAR

Trouble Arises From Members Refusing to Fight

EL PASO, TEXAS, (United Press)

The greatest religious emigration since Moses led his followers out of Egypt, and one that bears some resemblance to the ancient biblical event, is being carried on by members of the Mennonite religious sect in Canada, who are now moving from the Dominion to their new homes in Mexico.

The movement of the Mennonites is the outgrowth of trouble with the Canadian government during the world war, over refusal of members of the sect to participate in the world war, due to religious objections. The chief tenet of the sect forbids members to take up arms.

When the draft law was put into effect in Canada, it caused widespread dissatisfaction among the Mennonites and they began to look for a place where they worship their God according to their own customs.

After a long search, leaders found a large tract of land in the state of Chihuahua, northern Mexico, that was to their liking. The Mexican government, newly established, was campaigning for foreign agricultural colonists, and welcomed the thrifty religious emigrants. They were given valuable land concessions and long before the first band of Mennonites arrived, the Mexican government had sewage systems and streets built and wells drilled. The first contingent of Mennonites, consisting of three special trains, carrying all their belongings, including livestock, left their old Canadian homes over a year ago. Today 2,500 members of the sect are building schools, churches, homes, and are cultivating the soil, preparing the way for an army of thirty thousand more, who intend to make their homes there in search of religious freedom.

Twenty-two villages have been established. The families live close together in little towns, surrounded by their farms, which are operated much the same as those of peasants in Europe. Each Mennonite is permitted to have only 160 acres of land and this is held in fee simple.

A bishop is at the head of the government and the colonists look to him for leadership in business and personal affairs, as well as spiritual guidance. This plan is similar to that of the Mormon colonies in the same state.

The Mexican inhabitants look upon the newcomers with great respect, not unmixed with awe, for they are "different." The Oregon regards them as a decided asset and has signed agreements guaranteeing them the things they cherish most—religious freedom and exemption from military service.

The land selected by the Mennonites has been the battleground of scores of revolutionary movements and it rich in revolutionary lore. It was through this part of Mexico that General Pershing chased Francisco Villa after Villa's attack on Columbus, New Mexico. The town of Culhuatlahchic, where Mexican bandits massacred a dozen of American citizens several years ago is near the Mennonite colony. It is not far from Colonial Diaz, a Mexican colony, raised and named by Red Rodriguez, a Mexican marauder.

The Mennonite lands are a part of the extensive Luis Terrazas estates in northern Mexico. The estate was broken upon the passing of the Land Partitions act, a year or so ago, and has been distributed among colonists. Terrazas was one of the richest men in the world before the division of his lands.

G. A. R. POST WILL STICK TO THE END

BERLIN, Wis.—"Hold together as a post until the last man goes west." This resolution was unanimously adopted by the John H. Williams Post No. 4, G. A. R., said to be the oldest post in the world, at a regular meeting.

The ten members of the post were present. The meeting was to settle finally the question of maintenance of the unit. When the question was put to a vote, ten men arose for continuance of the post.

The unit was the first to be organized in the United States, having been founded in May, 1886. For many years following the close of the civil war, this post had a large membership. The recent years have witnessed a "thinning" out of the ranks of those who once were the "blue" and only ten members remain to "carry on."

How big is a battery?

Exide BATTERIES

You may think of a battery as a forty-pound black box that starts your car and makes bright your path, or an eight-pound Exide that lights your motorcycle.

But to the men in the central power and lighting stations of many great cities, an Exide Battery is a huge thing, as big as an ordinary house, for each cell weighs as much as 3 tons, and there are 150 cells to a battery.

There is an Exide built for every purpose; for telephone systems, for farm lighting, for street trucks, for propelling submarines under the sea.

The first automobile battery was an Exide. The Exide made for your car today embodies the experience of the oldest and largest manufacturers of storage batteries in the world.

You will find it pays in every way to get an Exide when your present battery has to be replaced.

We believe you will also find that it is well worthwhile to go to one of our service stations when your battery needs attention. There are all skilled battery men and repairers make of battery efficiently and promptly.
